

You Are Invited to the BC Nature 2010 AGM and Convention in Kamloops

To everyone in BC Nature

It is our opportunity and pleasure to host the 2010 AGM from May 13 to the 16th, 2010. We can demonstrate our commitment to the goals of BC Nature, showcase nature in the Kamloops region and have the pleasure of meeting old friends as well as welcome new ones. Rick Howie, known to many of you, is leading our hardworking convention committee.

On these pages you will find the registration form, the convention program and other things that may assist: a map of the highway approaches to Thompson Rivers University, the campus layout and a guide to accommodations. Please send in your registration as soon as you can, since banquet seating is limited. We suggest that you print the map showing where the conference facilities are located on the TRU campus.

The theme of the 2010 Conference is "Grasslands, Past, Present and Future." When you visit in May, new growth will be flourishing across the hills and gullies and diverse birds will be arriving. We hope you might join some of the tours and learn more about the unique and important nature of the interior grasslands – one of the most threatened environments in British Columbia. Together, we can consider the vital questions posed by the theme - while having a great and productive time together.

We look forward to seeing so many of you in May.

A handwritten signature in black ink, which appears to read "Thomas P. Dickinson".

Dr. Tom Dickinson, President, Kamloops Naturalist Club

Header photo: "North Kamloops at Sunset", December 2009. The Lac du Bois Grasslands top the rugged hills illuminated in the background.